2. For domestic requirements our long range projections in the 1982 - 1986 time frame would indicate that we will have additional requirements for communications support. Our Key building requirements would include terminals, possibly mini and micro computers, facsimile, etc. It is our understanding that most of these requirements would require an upgraded data communication link between Headquarters and Key building. Headquarters requirements would be expanded due to a proposed decentralization of data entry to the user offices including time and attendance reporting and input to our GAS and FRS systems. Also there is a possibility of a requirement to provide data communications [REDACTED] to Headquarters for data terminal access to the Agency's VM system (for training purposes).

3. We are unable to definitize our requirements at this time for the time frame requested, however, for long range planning it would appear that the above broad requirements are realistic. For further information please contact [REDACTED]
